PART 4 — Your 31 Day Alchemy Practice

Morning: Draw one card, observe its symbolism, and explore its number, element and astrology.

During the Day: Live your life and notice what unfolds.

Evening: Reflect on how the card appeared in your experience and what you learned.

PART 5 — Continue Your Journey

Personal Journaling Pages

Your Own Discoveries and Reflections

You don't need to memorize everything before you begin. Start with the card, its number and element. Let astrology expand your understanding, and allow your everyday experiences to teach you what the symbols mean.

Draw the card. Live the day. Experience the meaning.

WELCOME TO CARD-A-DAY ALCHEMY

One card. Five minutes.
A month of discovery.

This journal is NOT homework and you do not need to predict your entire day.

Draw one card, notice what it shows, add one astrological layer, and then put the journal away. In the evening, return for a few minutes and notice how the card appeared or did not appear in your day.

The alchemy happens through practice.

Over 30 days, Tarot meanings and astrological correspondences stop being isolated facts to memorize. They become a language you can recognize, test and experience in your own readings.

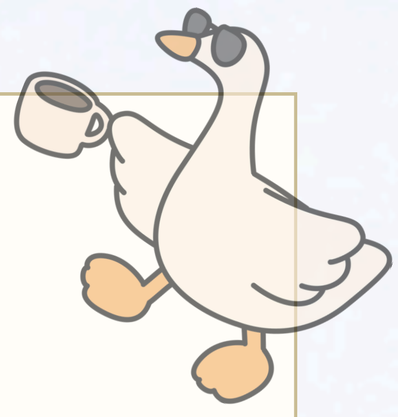

No forced meanings. ‘Not obvious today’ is a valid and useful observation.

YOUR TINY DAILY RITUAL

Draw. Live. Reflect.

Two short check-ins. One ordinary day. Your own lived meaning.

1

ABOUT 2 MINUTES

Draw

Look at the card before reaching for a guidebook. Notice what catches your eye, then add its number, element and astrological correspondence. Write one possible message.

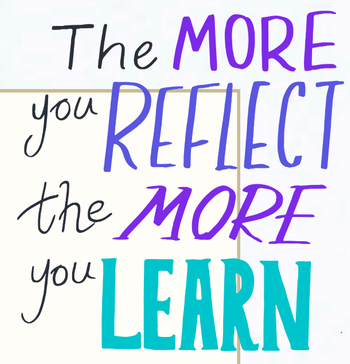

2

THE REST OF YOUR DAY

Live

Close the journal. Go to work, make coffee, meet people, rest, study, laugh, get distracted, live your actual day. You are observing, not performing for the card.

ABOUT 3 MINUTES

Reflect

Return in the evening. What stood out? Was the card literal, emotional, symbolic or mental? What did astrology add? Finish with: ‘Today, this card meant…’

Card first, astrology second.

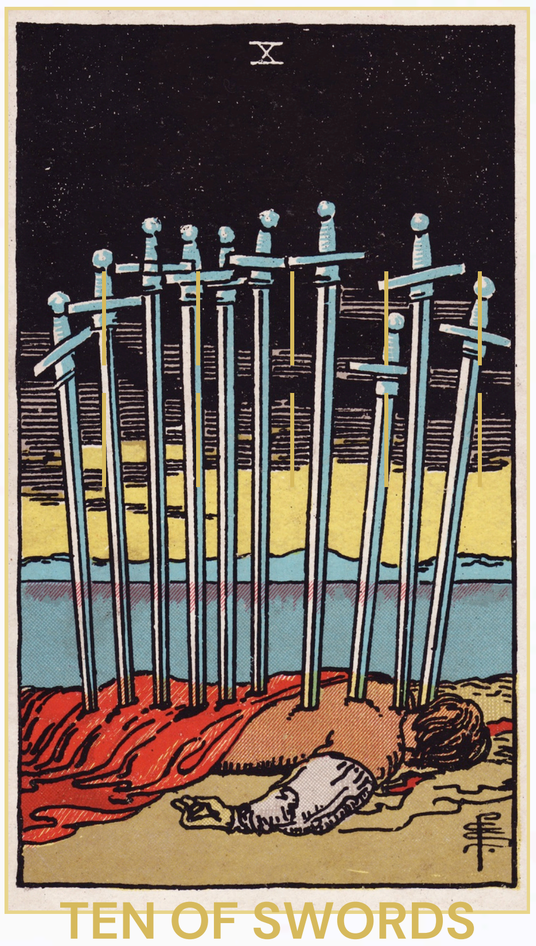

Astrology expands the card; it does not replace the image or force your day to fit a correspondence.

A REAL CARD-A-DAY ALCHEMY EXAMPLE

Ten of Swords

An ending that was not a disaster

TEN OF SWORDS

What the card shows

A heavy image of finality and an ending.

Number + element

Ten suggests culmination or completion & transition. Swords connect with Air, thought, words and the mind.

Astrological layer

Sun in the third decan of Gemini (20–30° Gemini), the established Golden Dawn-derived correspondence.

Possible message

A mental or narrative cycle may reach its end.

Live (lived experience)

I finished Alchemised, a dark, immersive fantasy novel of more than 1,000 pages. I struggled to focus on a branding lecture and instead I read the book until I reached the end. Afterward came the emptiness of leaving a fictional world I was not ready to leave. There was some disappointment about the ending too. But the reading came to a definitive end. :-)

Reflect (experience vs meaning)

The card did not announce a catastrophe. Its dramatic image described the ending of an absorbing mental and narrative world and the transition back into ordinary life. The Sun in Gemini layer sharpened themes of illumination (sun) of reading a book, written content, mental immersion (all Gemini traits). Rumination on its ending occupied my mind during the day.

*it doesn't mean the next card pull wont have the textbook meaning

TODAY, THIS CARD MEANT

The end of a world I was not ready to leave.

What did not fit: No external disaster occurred. The card's intensity was symbolic and internal.

The Four Elements

Use the element to identify the kind of energy, need or experience the card brings into the reading.

Fire

inspiration · will · action · courage · passion · vitality asks: What wants to move or ignite?

Water

emotion · intuition · bonding · healing · receptivity · memory asks: What is being felt or received?

Air

thought · language · perception · decision · exchange · clarity asks: What is being understood or communicated?

Earth

body · labour · resources · stability · manifestation · security asks: What must become tangible?

Golden Dawn / Hermetic Decan Correspondences

This is the Golden Dawn/Hermetic decan system.
The astrological correspondence is an added layer, not a replacement for the card image, number and suit.

- Number = development stage, the pattern, the ‘what’ is going on
- Suit = field of experience
- Image = expression
- Planet in sign = astrological layer
- Integrated meaning = how all layers work together

GOLDEN DAWN ASTROLOGICAL CORRESPONDANCES

Two of Wands — How the Meaning Is Built

1. NUMBER 2 — The Pattern

Duality · Meeting · Opposition · Choice · Balance

2. ELEMENT: FIRE — Where It Happens

Will · Desire · Passion · Initiative · Action · Ambition

NUMBER + ELEMENT

Two desires or ambitions meet. Competing directions · Choosing where to act · Balancing personal ambitions · Deciding which path to pursue

GOLDEN DAWN ASTROLOGICAL CORRESPONDANCES

How to Use the Tarot Decan Wheel?

The zodiac has 12 signs, and each sign is divided into three sections of 10 degrees, called decans. This gives us 36 decans, each associated with a planetary ruler.
In the Golden Dawn Tarot tradition, these 36 decans correspond to the 36 numbered Minor Arcana cards, from Two through Ten, across the four suits.

How to Read the Wheel?

Start with the Two of Wands, which corresponds to the first decan of Aries (0°–10°), ruled by Mars.
This gives us:

Two of Wands = Mars in Aries, Decan I (0°–10°)
Now follow the wheel to the next decan:
Three of Wands = Sun in Aries, Decan II (10°–20°)
The Sun rules the second ten degree section of Aries, roughly corresponding to the next ten days of Aries season.

Continue to the third decan:
Four of Wands = Venus in Aries, Decan III (20°–30°)

Then move into Taurus and continue following the wheel through the zodiac.
The planetary rulers are represented by their astrological glyphs (symbols).

GOLDEN DAWN ASTROLOGICAL CORRESPONDANCES

A Quick Note About Degrees

You might notice that different astrology books or tarot guides write the decan ranges differently. Some use 0°–9°, 10°–19°, and 20°–29°, while others use 0°–10°, 10°–20°, and 20°–30°.
Both conventions describe the same three ten-degree sections, but we need to remember that astrological degrees also contain minutes.

For precise chart work, the boundaries I use are:

- Decan I: 0°00′ to 9°59′
- Decan II: 10°00′ to 19°59′
- Decan III: 20°00′ to 29°59′

So a planet at exactly 10°00′ Aries belongs to the second decan, and a planet at 20°00′ Aries belongs to the third decan.

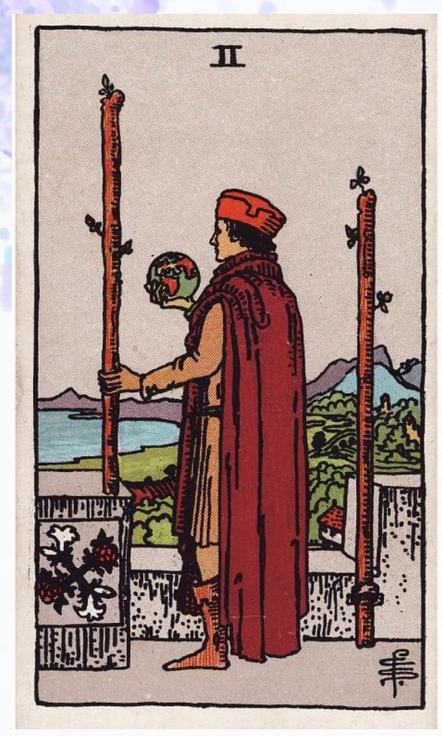

Each decan represents approximately ten days of the Sun's journey through a zodiac sign, although the exact number of days can vary.
For more detailed explanation about decans and decan walk, go to my youtube chanel @thestellaralchemy and watch episode- WTF is deacn walk & Why should YOU do it!

Remember: The number and suit give you the foundation of a tarot card's meaning. The decan wheel adds another layer by showing you which planet and zodiac sign contribute to that card's symbolism and how it expands the meaning..

example:

Golden Dawn title: Dominion

2 of Wands

Number 2: Duality · Choice · Balance

Element Fire: Desire · Action · Ambition

Planet Mars: Assertion · Drive · Initiative. ♂

Sign Aries: Independence · Beginnings · Courage ♈

Synthesis: Two possible ambitions or directions meet. Mars in Aries adds the will to take initiative, make a choice and assert control over the direction of action.

Practical reading: Which ambition will you pursue, and what action will help you take command of that choice?

An important distinction

The Golden Dawn's planetary decans come from the classical seven planet sequence of Chaldean order. Some planetary placements appear counterintuitive if interpreted only through modern psychological keywords.

For example: the Ten of Cups is the third decan of Pisces ruled by planet Mars. Even though its traditional Golden Dawn title is Perfected Success. This illustrates why the historical card title, number, element and the planet in sign correspondence should be considered together rather than deriving a meaning from two keywords alone.

(When I pulled this card one morning, I thought 'oh great, I will have a wonderful day.' Instead, I had chaos at work that emotionally exhausted me. Mars - meaning conflict. We had technology that was glitching. Pisces - among many meanings, it signifies foreign lands. I am working with foreign clients and we had issues with technology that disrupted the work flow with clients in another country and caused conflicts, culmination of emotional charge and emotional exhaustion.)

example:

Golden Dawn title: Dominion

2 of Wands

Number 2: Duality · Choice · Balance

Element Fire: Desire · Action · Ambition

Planet Mars: Assertion · Drive · Initiative. ♂

Sign Aries: Independence · Beginnings · Courage ♈

You see how card a day practice helps you with delineating the meanings.
It doesnt mean that the next time it will not be a perfect day.
Intution of a reader picks up the energy to explain the cards.
When you have a richer vocabulary of meanings,
your reading is more expansive.

Number + Element establishes the reading.
Astrology expands it. The persons actual question gives the interpretation its relevance.

You don't need to memorize the correspondences on the next pages. Use the reference pages whenever you want to explore an additional layer. Even if you work only with the card's image, number and element, you're already building your own tarot language.
